COMMONLY MISUNDERSTOOD OR MISUSED CDT CODES FOR RESTORATIVE PROCEDURE - MISCODING OF ZIRCONIA CROWNS

The American Dental Association (ADA) has addressed the issue of proper coding of zirconia crowns.

- A zirconia crown is made from zirconium dioxide, a durable material that's related (key word 'related') to titanium, although it's categorized as a type of ceramic crown.
- According to the ADA guidance:
 - Q: What procedure code should I report for a porcelain fused to a zirconium substrate crown?
 - A: This question contains a commonly made error, using the word zirconium when describing the crown's material. Dental crowns use zirconia, which is an oxide and considered chemically to be a ceramic. The applicable procedure code is D2740 crown-porcelain/ceramic.

Therefore, in the administration of benefits relative to the procedure code submitted, we follow the ADA CDT Coding and guidance:

The method of fabrication is not a consideration in code selection.

The component/brand name porcelain is not to be considered in code selection.

Restorative Services/Desensitization D9910 and D9911

According to CDT descriptors for procedure codes D9910 and D9911, application of desensitizing medicament, the use of D9911 or 9910 in conjunction with restorative services is not appropriate. As defined by CDT:

- D9911 application of desensitizing resin for cervical and/or root surface per tooth is the application of adhesive resin. This code is not to be used for bases, liners, or adhesives under restorations.
- The use of D9910 application of desensitizing medicament is in office treatment for root sensitivity. This code is not to be used for bases, liners, or adhesives under restorations.

HEALTH WATCH

OPIOID AND DENTISTRY

Opioid pain relievers are commonly prescribed following surgery or injury, or for health conditions such as cancer or for pain conditions such as toothache and pain associated with an abscess. While opioids can be effective treatment for managing chronic pain and other conditions when properly administered, they carry significant risk when misused or abused.

Regular monitoring and identification of early risk factors is critical to recognizing patients who are most at-risk for prescription drug abuse issues and those who are in need of treatment. Commitment across the healthcare industry is needed to effectively fight prescription opioid abuse.

WHAT YOU CAN DO:

Dentists have a significant role in ensuring appropriate prescription opioids use.

The American Dental Association has adopted two statements addressing opioid prescribing: Statement on the Use of Opioids in the Treatment of Dental Pain¹ and Statement on Provision of Dental Treatment for Patients with Substance Use Disorders.² These statements outline opioid management considerations including the importance of:

- Registering with and utilizing prescription drug monitoring program
- Discussions with patients regarding their responsibilities for preventing misuse, abuse, storage and disposal of prescription opioids
- Consideration of nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory analgesics as the first-line therapy for acute pain management.
- Consideration of coordination with other treating doctors, including pain specialists when prescribing opioids for management of chronic orofacial pain.
- Encouragement to seek consultation with the patient's physician, when the patient has a history of alcoholism or other substance use disorder.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) notes that Prescription Drug Monitoring Programs (PDMPs) are among the most promising interventions to improve opioid prescribing, inform clinical practice, and protect patients at risk.³ What you need to know:

- Enroll in your local PDMPs.
- A PDMP allows providers to identify situations in which they should not be prescribing a controlled substance to a patient. This enables dentists to move towards better medication adherence and helps to curb the prescription drug abuse epidemic.

Dental providers and facilities are required to review all member's information received from UniCare to ensure no misrouted PHI (Protected Health Information) is included. Misrouted PHI includes information about members that a provider or facility is not currently treating. PHI can be misrouted to providers and facilities by mail, fax, email, or electronic remittance.

Dental providers and facilities are required to immediately destroy any misrouted PHI or safeguard the PHI for as long as it is retained. In no event are providers or facilities permitted to misuse or re-disclose misrouted PHI. If providers or facilities cannot destroy or safeguard misrouted PHI, providers and facilities must contact Customer Service or call the number listed on the documentation received to report receipt of misrouted PHI.

Dental providers and facilities should review claims and documents carefully before submitting for payment to ensure that the member ID and name listed on the claim is accurate.
